

With the change in the Seven Dispensations from the Old to the New Dispensation there is one transition at the beginning and one at the end of each dispensation, (except for the first dispensation there is none beginning and none ending the last dispensation). The ending of the old and beginning of the new overlap each other running at the same time until the old comes to an end which ends the old dispensation. When the transition comes to an end the new dispensation takes full operation. The failure triggers the transition's beginning. If no failure occurs in a dispensation then there is no new transition.
